

INTERNATIONAL WROUGHT COPPER COUNCIL

Data Protection Policy

The IWCC is registered with the UK Information Commissioner (Registration Number: ZA030837).

The information that delegates supply for the purposes of registration will be entered into a database, which will be accessed only by staff of the IWCC. The information will be retained by the IWCC and will only be used for the purposes of:

- managing applications and registrations for attendance at meetings and associated activities, and
- where appropriate for control of access to papers and statistics located on the IWCC Website.

Some of the personal information supplied to the IWCC, as part of the registration process, may be transmitted to either persons or companies contracted by the IWCC to provide accommodation, transport and ancillary services. Such persons and contractors are required to treat the information with the same level of confidentiality as the IWCC. Personal information will not be disclosed to any other party.

Delegate names, companies, positions and partner names (if attending) may be made available to all attendees at IWCC meetings.

Such information may be used by the IWCC to be given to potential participants in future meetings to illustrate attendance at and structure of past meetings.

By supplying such information, delegates consent to the IWCC storing and using their information for the above stated purposes. Contact information will be used by the IWCC to inform delegates about future meetings organised by the IWCC. No data will be passed to any other party for commercial purposes.

The information is processed by the IWCC in accordance with the provisions of the UK Data Protection Act 1998.
